The Spring Outing on Saturday 24th March...

Bourn

Gamlingay

Caxton

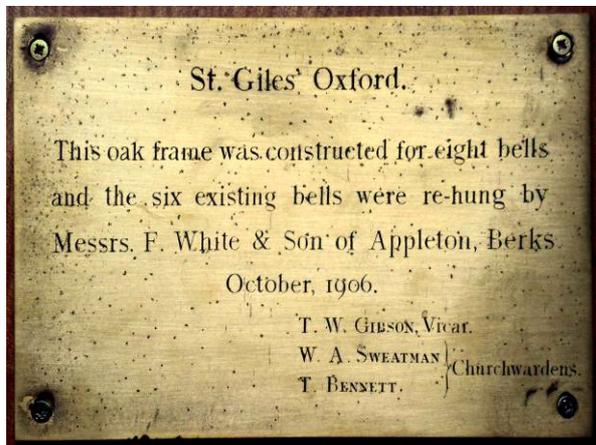

Gt. Gransden

Even several days in advance we knew we were likely to be on to a sure thing with the weather! And so it transpired on a day when temperatures here exceeded those in Madrid! Our day took us from the 12th century church in Bourn (8), complete with its crooked spire, on to one of the most architecturally significant churches in the east of England in Gamlingay (8), then a hiatus in the ringing with a superb lunch at easily one of the best pubs in this, or any other, part of the country, namely the Duncombe Arms in Waresley, a village itself worthy of mention for the numerous thatched cottages each with a different thatched creature atop them. The afternoon's ringing took in Caxton (6), a village historically noted for its infamous gallows known as the "Caxton Gibbet". Then finishing with the 'piece de resistance' of the bells at Great Gransden (6). It was a very enjoyable day for all concerned! Hugh Deam.

St. Giles' Oxford.

This oak frame was constructed for eight bells and the six existing bells were re-hung by Messrs. F. White & Son of Appleton, Berks October, 1906.

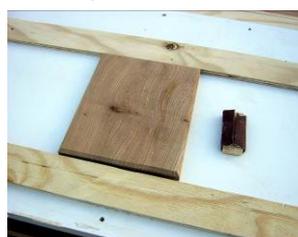

T. W. GIBSON, Vicar.
W. A. SWEATMAN } Churchwardens.
T. BENNETT. }

St Giles Plaque

When St Giles' bells were rehung last year, a brass plaque commemorating the rehanging of 1906 (see picture) was found attached to the old headstock of the tenor bell. Jonathan Everett has cleaned up the plaque, and attached it to a slab of wood cut from the same headstock. In due course it will be displayed in St Giles tower.

Below: Jonathan's workshop, and the state of the plaque before cleaning.
